Terms and Conditions of booking

FEES

All fees must be paid in full prior to each course.

CANCELLATION

In the very unusual event of a change of course date, venue or cancellation by us, you will be notified at least 7 days prior to the start of the course. In these circumstances you will be offered alternative dates or a full refund.

We reserve the right to terminate your training if we feel your continued participation would be unhealthy or unhelpful for you or another member of the training group. Your fees will not be refunded in these circumstances.

Under the Distance Selling Regulations 2000, you (the consumer) are entitled to a cooling-off period of seven working days in which you may cancel your place on the course and receive your fee back in full. The cooling off period commences from the day we receive payment from you. Should the first day of the training course commence within the cooling off period then you will have commenced the Service and will no longer have a right to terminate your contract with the Rowan Centre. Please note, these regulations do not apply to B2B services.

Cancellations by participants will only be accepted by written confirmation by email or post at least 15 working days prior to the start of the course. Failure to provide sufficient notice will result in the full course fees being charged unless we or you are able to fill your place with another person.

Should you postpone for any reason you must give at least 15 working days notice. In this instance you must be able to attend the next available training date, or supply another person to attend in your place. Failure to do so will result in the charging of the full course fees.

CONFIDENTIALITY

As this is a training course and not a therapy, there is no requirement for you to share personal information with other members of the group, but some people may choose to do so. Do you agree to maintain confidentiality with regard to personal information shared by others during the training?

Yes / No
